The PSA Eco Network is for members interested in building union activity around climate change and other environmental issues in their workplaces and beyond.

Why environmental issues are union issues

The PSA's purpose is to build our union organisation to influence the industrial, economic, political and social environment in order to advance the interests of PSA members. Those interests include a sustainable future – all of our members depend on this. We believe that the most serious issue currently affecting our planet, our lives and our work is climate change. All public and community services, and workers will need to adapt.

One of the PSA's goals is to ensure that the transition to a low emissions economy is a just one for workers, and that workers have a say in how this happens.

We're a member-led virtual network. We're here to help promote your ideas, support member-led activities, and tap into the expertise of the PSA membership on environmental issues.
